USING GUNS OF HEAVY CALIBER

German Land Batteries Throw Shells Into Dunkirk.

MISREAD FRENCH DISPATCH

First Impression in London Was That the German Fleet Had Steamed Down the Coast and Bombarded French City—German Cavalry Is Raiding Russian Baltic Provinces.

London, May 1.—The admiralty announces that the position of the German guns which have been bombarding Dunkirk, having been verified by aircraft reconnaissance, it was attacked, twelve small and two large bombs being dropped. Reconnaissance also was made to Ostend, which was cleared of all important craft.

London, May 1.—Besides the news from the Dardanelles the British public was supplied with several sensations. The misreading of the French official communication led to the belief that the German fleet was out and had bombarded Dunkirk, on the North sea, in France; but it transpired that by some means not yet explained the Germans had brought their big land guns within range of Dunkirk and thrown shells into it and killed twenty persons and wounded forty-five.

Another report had it that the Germans had been seen off the coast of Belgium, but as British warcraft were bombarding Zebrugge this seems doubtful.

Another sensation came from the east, where it is announced that German cavalry, which, which succeeded apparently in getting around the extreme right of the Russians, has invaded the Russian Baltic provinces. There has been no indication in what force the Germans are operating, but it is presumed here that the cavalry is simply looking over the ground to find out what opposition a force landed at Polangen, in the province of Courland, would meet with.

CREATES DEEP IMPRESSION

Germans Use Large Caliber Guns to Shell Dunkirk.

London, May 1.—The British public has been greatly impressed by the German bombardment of Dunkirk, which it is believed in military circles here must have been from a distance of from eighteen to twenty miles.

The Times says the incident is of small importance from a military standpoint, but that it brings the war closer to England's shores than at any earlier period of the struggle.

Passengers, who arrived in London from France, said that the shells that fell in Dunkirk were of large caliber and were supposed to have come from guns at least seventeen miles inland. Many persons were killed outright, while others died later from their injuries.

Fletcher Heads Congress.

Muskogee, Okla., May 1.—Senator Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida was re-elected president of the Southern Commercial congress here by the board of directors. The other present officers also were re-elected.

Holland Trade Resumed.

London, May 1.—The British admiralty announced that trade between England and Holland may be resumed, but that passenger traffic is not yet permitted.

FLOOD OF PROTESTS AGAINST LIQUOR TAX.

London, May 1.—A flood of protests have come from all parts of the country against the proposals of David Lloyd George, chancellor of the exchequer, to increase the duty on alcoholic drinks. These proposals have received little support outside the immediate government circles. Temperance advocates are dissatisfied because the whole prohibition schedules have not been carried out. Ireland, particularly, is disturbed, it being the belief there that if the proposals were adopted they would spell ruin to brewers, licensed traders and farmers who have sown barley in large quantities this year.

WALTER H. PAGE.

London, May 1.—Ambassador Walter Hines Page has followed the king's example, now and henceforth no liquor being served in his household on Grosvenor square. The guests at the embassy noticed several days ago the disappearance of the usual wines from the ambassadorial table and wondered about it.

Now it becomes known that Mr. Page has decided that he and his household shall abstain, whether for the duration of the war only or forever is not known.

ARTILLERY ACTIVE ON WESTERN FRONT

French Infantry Also Making Counter Attacks.

London, May 1.—The semi-weekly report from the headquarters in the field of the British commander-in-chief, Field Marshal Sir John French, was given out here as follows:

"The situation on our front has remained unchanged during the last forty-eight hours. The area in the neighborhood of Ypres has been the scene of great artillery activity throughout this period, but there have been no other operations so far as the British army is concerned.

"On our immediate left the French made counter attacks, supported by our artillery fire, which made sensible progress."

SEE END OF PARLIAMENT

Cabinet Change Rumored at Ottawa Said to Be Sign.

Ottawa, Ont., May 1.—Political observers here believe that parliament will be dissolved next week. One of the signs is a rumored cabinet change, involving the retirement within a few days of Louis Coderre, secretary of state, and the appointment of J. Teller or E. M. Patenaude to the vacancy.

The shipping of the ballot forms to the troops over seas is also taken as an indication that there will be an appeal to the country.

NUMBER OF PEOPLE KILLED

Many Others Injured by Explosion in Russia.

Petrograd, May 1.—A number of persons were killed, many others injured and much material damage was done as the result of an explosion in an ammunition factory in the suburb of Okhta.

Several workshops were destroyed and many of the inhabitants of the neighborhood were hurt by flying debris.

The number of persons killed has not yet been ascertained. It is asserted that the stores of loaded shells were not affected and that work will be resumed in a few days.

WAR VETERAN ENDS LIFE

Brother of Don M. Dickinson Is Suicide at Kansas City.

Kansas City, May 1.—George M. Dickinson, said to be a brother of Don M. Dickinson, postmaster general under the Hayes administration, committed suicide in a hotel here by shooting himself. He was seventy-two years old and a veteran of the Civil war. According to friends here he had been separated from his family for thirty years.

He was a partner in a "burglar proof" vault manufacturing company here. A brother and sister are said to live in Detroit.

French Nose Guard Against German Gases

This nose guard is now worn by the allies in the trenches in the fighting around the Yser Canal, where the Germans, just the other day, released poisonous gases to drive them from their trenches. The nose guard was invented for use earlier when the Germans shot bombs containing poisonous gases. Now it will be used against the chlorine, which has become a German weapon of war.

When a heavy yellow cloud of acid fumes went drifting south from the German trenches at evening on Thursday, April 22, and rolled over the French lines near Lagemarek, the defenders were taken by surprise. To stay in the deadly cloud meant asphyxiation. Some made their escape. The stubborn ones who stayed at their posts perished without a wound. When the cloud had blown past and the German infantry could advance, they found trenches vacant or held only by dead men. Pressing on they took whole batteries of artillery which stood silent and harmless. Following up their advantage, the German troops rushed the second and third lines of their enemy and at one point, without much difficulty, actually crossed the canal which forms the base of the great Ypres salient.

TELL PASSENGERS SHIP WOULD SINK

(By United Press)

New York, May 1.—Scores of prominent passengers taking passage on the giant Cunard Lusitania this afternoon found anonymous telegrams waiting on board for them announcing that the Lusitania would be sunk on the trip to Liverpool. Strangers also circulated among the passengers telling them the ship would be sunk, but disappeared when the Cunarders' detectives started to take them into custody. Special Agent Cramer, of the liner, stated he believed that the Germans were trying to intimidate the passengers by trying to make them believe the British liner was unsafe. Not a single passenger cancelled sailing. It is declared the German ambassador is ignoring this government by addressing the people through ordinary advertisements. The German embassy's statement was that the public was merely being given warning.

ROOSEVELT TRIAL HAS TAKEN RECESS

(By United Press)

Syracuse, May 1.—The Roosevelt-Barnes trial has recessed until Monday, but behind the scenes the arguments are being continued. All agree that the instructions to the jury by Judge Andrews will have great bearing on the case. The testimony of Roosevelt is largely reconsidered, his attorneys insisting that proof of the printing graft is sufficient defense.

PASSENGERS MUST SAIL AT THEIR OWN RISK

(By United Press)

New York, May 1.—Notwithstanding the fact that the German embassy published in all New York papers that American passengers taking passage on British or Allied ships do so at their own risk, 3,000 persons sailed on such liners today, it being the heaviest passenger list thus far this spring.

GERMANS CONTINUE BOMBARD DUNKIRK

(By United Press)

Berlin, May 1.—An official statement from the German war office says that the Germans continue to bombard Dunkirk with heavy artillery. The allied attacks in Northern Flanders was repulsed, three of the enemy's aviators having been shot down. The Germans also claim success in the eastern front near Szewale, where thousands of Russians and ten machine guns were captured.

Paris, May 1.—Many lives are being sacrificed at Dunkirk on account of a result of the renewal of the shelling of this northern fortified city by German guns. The war office has admitted that the report it issued to the effect that German guns had been silenced by aviators was incorrect. Several additional houses have been destroyed, but otherwise the situation is unchanged.

MINERS REJECT OWNERS' OFFER

(By United Press)

London, May 1.—The offer of the Mine Owners Association of a 10 per cent increase to all classes of mine employees has been rejected by the Miners Federation. They declare that the offer is insufficient, and have decided to leave the whole matter to Premier Asquith.

TURKS DRIVEN FURTHER INLAND

(By United Press)

London, May 1.—Desperate fighting is reported on Gallipoli peninsula where the British forces are attempting to cut the Turks from the main land, and the dispatches indicate that the Turks are being driven further inland. The report of the capture of Gallipoli lacks confirmation, the latest reports, however, indicated that the British forces had landed south of Jendeb and had advanced inland and engaged the enemy.

POSSIBLY LONG QUARREL STARTED

(By United Press)

Chicago, Ill., May 1.—Enginemen who asked for increase in wages aggregating $41,000,000 annually, were granted an increase equaling $5,000,000 annually. Possibly a long quarrel has been started, the protest being based upon a possible legal error. A conference is on between the officials this afternoon.

Railway Employees' Representatives Score Federal Arbitrator.

Chicago, May 1.—Charges that Charles F. Nagel, neutral member of the board of arbitration which ended its deliberations over the railroad wage question, was "a violent partisan," who, through indirect business interests in the roads, was unfit to act as a neutral arbitrator, were made by Wafren S. Stone, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Enginemen and Firemen.

With these charges was made public the telegraphic correspondence representatives of the men had with President Wilson and Martin E. Knapp, W. C. Chambers and G. W. W. Hanger, protesting against Mr. Nagel being permitted to act as an arbitrator.

TEN PERSONS PERISH IN FIRE AT COLON

Property Loss Is Estimated at About $2,000,000.

Colon, May 1.—More than half the city of Colon was swept by a disastrous fire.

Ten persons are known to be dead, including two native policemen, and several hundred persons have been injured, while between 10,000 and 12,000 others, mostly negroes, have been rendered homeless.

The loss is estimated at about $2,000,000.

The fire destroyed completely twenty-two city blocks and was not controlled until twelve buildings in its path had been dynamited.

Many arrests have been made for looting. The town is now under the guard of native police and two companies of the United States coast artillery, who aided in fighting the fires.

Half the population have lost all their belongings.

The fire started in the heart of the city and soon was beyond control of the native fire brigade. The cause of the fire has not yet been learned and probably never will be known.

EMPLOYEES GIVEN INCREASE IN PAY

Arbitration Award Affects 64,000 Railway Men.

GOES INTO EFFECT MAY 10

Decision Appears to Have Been a Compromise and Dissenting Opinion on Behalf of the Enginemen Is Filed—Representatives of the Employees Criticize the Verdict.

Chicago, May 1.—An arbitration award, advancing to some extent the pay of 64,000 locomotive engineers, firemen and hostlers employed on the 140,000 miles of line of forty-eight Western railroads in the great area of the United States and Canada, bounded on the east by the Illinois Central and the Great Lakes, was signed here.

A dissenting opinion was filed on behalf of the Brotherhood of Enginemen, in which the arbitration was branded as a failure and the Newlands law, under which it was arranged, as an inadequate device for the settlement of industrial disputes.

The award, effective May 10 and binding for one year only, was declared frankly as merely postponing for twelve months the actual settlement of the differences involved.

Judges Peter C. Pritchard of Richmond, Va., chairman of the board, said that while in his opinion the men in certain branches of the service are entitled to greater advances than were granted he had to make concessions in order that an award might be made.

Burgess Member of Board.

The brotherhoods were represented on the board by F. A. Burgess, Louisville, Ky., assistant grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and Timothy Shea, Peoria, Ill., vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Enginemen and Firemen. The railroad members were W. L. Park, Chicago, vice president of the Illinois Central, and H. E. Bryan, Chicago, vice president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy.

As explained by Mr. Burgess the essential concessions to the men were:

First—Standardization of rates of pay on the weight of locomotives on drive wheels.

Second—Overtime pay to passenger firemen and engineers, ranging from 44 to 55 cents an hour, respectively.

Third—Enginemen of steam power may transfer to electric power when installed without loss of seniority rights after May 1, 1915. The board was unable, because of the newness of electric railway service, to fix rates of pay in detail, but named $4.30 a day as the minimum for motormen in passenger service and $2.50 for their helpers; $4.75 for motormen in freight service and $2.75 for helpers.

Fourth—Enginemen of milk trains, circus trains and other irregular service, such as pusher and helper, receive the rate accorded on through freights, amounting to an increase of from 10 to 15 per cent.

Men Will Be Paid for Delay.

Fifth—The men will be paid for delay while in their cars at initial and final terminals and for time in excess of thirty minutes spent in preparing their engines for service.

Sixth—Switch enginemen will receive an advance in daily pay of 25 cents on small engines and 15 cents on large ones.

Seventh—Men held away from home terminals shall, after twenty-two hours' idleness, receive a minimum day's pay of 10 per cent, based on last service, out of each succeeding twenty-four hours until he gets a run.

Eighth—Through freight rates were advanced 5 to 20 cents, increasing with weight of engine, and 25 cents on some of the extremely heavy engines.

Ninth—Way-freight enginemen will receive 30 cents a day more than through freight men.

Tenth—Surprise tests will be conducted in such a way as not to endanger life, limb or nerves.

Eleventh—Firemen will be assisted, where assistance is available, in keeping coal forward and the coal shall be broken into pieces at chutes.

Twelfth—Where firemen on big engines deem an assistant necessary the matter may, if necessary, be adjusted through arbitration.

Thirteenth—Firemen will not be required to clean engines, nor will engineers be required to fill grease cups, set up wedges or perform other minor duties about an engine where others are available to do the work.

Fourteenth—The weight on drive wheels of the engine shall be posted where the enginemen can have convenient access to the information.

Among the requests which were not granted were the automatic release, time and a half for overtime in freight and switching service and the five-hour day in passenger service.

Burgess, Louisville, Ky., assistant grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and Timothy Shea, Peoria, Ill., vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Enginemen and Firemen. The railroad members were W. L. Park, Chicago, vice president of the Illinois Central, and H. E. Bryan, Chicago, vice president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy.

As explained by Mr. Burgess the essential concessions to the men were: First—Standardization of rates of pay on the weight of locomotives on drive wheels.

Second—Overtime pay to passenger firemen and engineers, ranging from 44 to 55 cents an hour, respectively.

Third—Enginemen of steam power may transfer to electric power when installed without loss of seniority rights after May 1, 1915. The board was unable, because of the newness of electric railway service, to fix rates of pay in detail, but named $4.30 a day as the minimum for motormen in passenger service and $2.50 for their helpers; $4.75 for motormen in freight service and $2.75 for helpers.

Fourth—Enginemen of milk trains, circus trains and other irregular service, such as pusher and helper, receive the rate accorded on through freights, amounting to an increase of from 10 to 15 per cent.

Men Will Be Paid for Delay.

Fifth—The men will be paid for delay while in their cabs at initial and final terminals and for time in excess of thirty minutes spent in preparing their engines for service.

Sixth—Switch enginemen will receive an advance in daily pay of 25 cents on small engines and 15 cents on large ones.

Seventh—Men held away from home terminals shall, after twenty-two hours' idleness, receive a minimum day's pay of 10 per cent, based on last service, out of each succeeding twenty-four hours until he gets a run.

Eighth—Through freight rates were advance 5 to 20 cents, increasing with weight of engine, and 25 cents on some of the extremely heavy engines.

Ninth—Way-freight enginemen will receive 30 cents a day more than through freight men.

Tenth—Surprise tests will be conducted in such a way as not to endanger life, limb or nerves.

Eleventh—Firemen will be assisted, where assistance is available, in keeping coal forward and the coal shall be broken into pieces at chutes.

Twelfth—Where firemen on big engines deem an assistant necessary the matter may, if necessary, be adjusted through arbitration.

Thirteenth—Firemen will not be required to clean engines, nor will enginemen be required to fill grease cups, set up wedges or perform other minor duties about an engine where others are available to do the work.

Fourteenth—The weight on drive wheels of the engine shall be posted where the enginemen can have convenient access to the information.

Among the requests which were not granted were the automatic release, time and a half for overtime in freight and switching service and the five-hour day in passenger service.

Old Time Salutations.
It was the custom in France in the seventeenth century to kiss a lady when saluting her and continued in common usage in England for a hundred years later. Royal salutations in France required extreme formality. One saluted the bed on entering the royal bedchamber, and in approaching the apartments of the king all head covering, the skullcap of priests included, had to be removed. In saluting queens and princesses one kissed the hem of the robe.

$100 REWARD WOO
The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Old Time Salutations.
It was the custom in France in the seventeenth century to kiss a lady when saluting her and continued in common usage in England for a hundred years later. Royal salutations in France required extreme formality. One saluted the bed on entering the royal bedchamber, and in approaching the apartments of the king all head covering, the skullcap of priests included, had to be removed. In saluting queens and princesses one kissed the hem of the robe.

The Senior class of the high school covered itself with glory Friday evening in their presentation of "A College Town," given under the direction of Miss Blanche Door.

Every act was given with snap and vigor. There were no cases of stage fright, no confusion, but a comedy rendered in such a manner as to evoke continuous applause.

The play revolves about Jimmie Cavendish, played by Melvin Carlson, and Miss Jane Cavendish, played by Miss Esther Zarniasen and terminates with Jimmie a hero.

A full house greeted the performance, making it a financial and social success and reflecting glory on all concerned in its production. Richard Ahrens is president of the senior class, Harry Eckholm was business manager of the production.

Music was furnished by the high school orchestra under the direction of Miss Mabel Harrison. The violin and piano section played in full accord. Owing however to the low pitch of the piano some of the brass instruments were not in exact harmony.

Prof. Chapman Addresses Bay Lake Club

The feature of the April meeting of the Bay Lake Farmers' club was an address by Prof. Chapman of the University Extension Bureau. Driving home his points with humor he told of the big results by proper handling of hens and showed the club how they could make their hens lay in December when eggs were high. Readily answering the questions fired at him he urged farmers to write to the State University Agricultural College, extension department, when in need of information of any kind. He was preceded by Miss Mary Bull, also an extension department lecturer, whose subject "The Home," interested the ladies.

The usual musical and literary program was dispensed with but not the dinner, which was served by Mrs. Harry Fuller, Mrs. Harold Smith and Miss Reilly. A committee to secure a more individual name for the club was appointed and also an official reporter. Owing to May being such a busy month the club will not meet again until the second Saturday in June.

Belgian Girls Must Work in the Coal Mine

Their fathers, husbands and brothers in the war—those of them that have not been killed by the invading Germans—the girls of Belgium have been sent down into the coal mines for the roughest kind of work. Coal miners are proverbially the hardest workers, and these girls, most of whom should be in school, must take up their tasks. They work with pick and shovel just like the men, and come forth grimy and dirty. Skirts are, of course, impossible. They must dress like miners to do miners' work, and accordingly the women have taken to trousers. If the war continues much longer these girls will work in mines many years after it has ended, for there will be few men left in Belgium.

The town board has decided to let three jobs of roadwork by contract to the lowest responsible bidder this year.

Whooping Cough

Well—everyone knows the effect of pin forests on coughs. Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is a remedy which brings quick relief for whooping cough, loosens the mucous, soothes the lining of the throat and lungs, and makes the coughing spells less severe. A family with growing children should not be without it. Keep it handy for all coughs and colds, 25c at your druggist.—Advt. tts

Soldiers Forbidden to Tramp Plowed Land

By William G. Shepherd,
United Press Staff Correspondent
Copyright 1915, by the United Press
Copyrighted in Great Britain

(The following is the fourth of the Shepherd stories from the front with the British army)

With the British Army in Northern France, April 17, by Mail to New York—Spring has come! The complexion of the war is changing. The flying men come down every day with the news that every day the grass is getting greener in the "no man's land" between the trenches; no one dares to go out there to tramp it down.

Trees that were land marks with the bare branches in the winter time are changing shape as their buds become leaves and the officers find themselves daily becoming more and more strangers to the landscape.

Ploughing in France has, apparently, been as extensive as ever before. In the fields old men and boys plough while women do the sowing. Unploughed fields are rarely seen. Ploughing and planting is going on up to within a mile of the English trenches and the French farms are scenes of agricultural activity within three or four miles of the scene of the shell firing.

Around the English headquarters all of the soil is in crop and Gen. French has arranged that none of his army shall encroach in any way upon the farm land except under the most urgent necessity. To trample ploughed land is an offense which must be explained to the English headquarters to the satisfaction of the commander in chief. The cavalry find a small piece of meadowland here and there, on which they exercise their horses but the French farmer is to be paid for any damage done his crop of hay. There is no place within many miles of headquarters where space can be found for collecting large forces of men for review purposes. Gen. French recently reviewing part of the forces, which had participated in the battle of Neuve Chapelle, traveled to several different spots within a radius of a dozen miles where the men were drawn up in comparatively small bodies.

"I can ride around and meet them," he said, "but I'd rather do that than spoil a wheat crop on some big farm."

In the vicinity of headquarters it looks as if agriculture was crowding the army out of the neighborhood. It is only when one approaches the lines that the army begins to get the upper hand in the curious conflict between the aged French farmer and the rifle bearing English soldiers.

You can't prevent an attack of Rheumatism from coming on, but you can stop it almost immediately. Sloan's Liniment gently applied to the sore joint or muscle penetrates in a few minutes to the inflamed spot that causes the pain. It soothes the hot, tender, swollen feeling, and in a very short time brings a relief that is almost unbelievable until you experience it. Get a bottle of Sloan's Liniment for 25c. of any druggist and have it in the house—against colds, sore and swollen joints, lumbago, sciatica and like ailments. Your money back if not satisfied, but it does give almost instant relief.—tts.

A Lost Mine.

Among the famous lost mines of the western world and one which is again being sought is the Tisingall of Costa Rica. It is said to have yielded great quantities of gold in the time of the Spanish domination. After quelling the Indian uprisings, however, the Spaniards failed to relocate the mine. It is thought that it lies hidden in the bed of one of the larger streams. Many legends are heard dealing with its wonderful richness, and many attempts have been made to find it, but so far without avail.—Argonaut.

Hit Him Both Ways.

A man was charged with picking a pocket and pleaded guilty.

The case went to the jury, however, and the verdict was not guilty.

And the court spoke as follows: "You don't leave this court without a stain on your character. By your own confession you are a thief. By the verdict of the jury you are a liar!"—London Tit-Bits.

SPEED OF BULLETS.

Ingenuous Method For Measuring It Used by the Experts.

The method used by experts to ascertain the velocity of a projectile or bullet at the moment it leaves the muzzle of the weapon is as follows:

There is a drumlike cylinder of fixed diameter and of sufficiently stiff paper to stand being rapidly revolved on a spindle. As the cylinder is of small circumference it is necessary that the speed approach 2,000 revolutions a minute. These revolutions are produced by electric power, and the count is made by an exact mechanical register.

The gun is placed securely at the required distance from the drum and is sighted directly at the center of the cylinder, which is spinning at so many rods—even miles—a minute, as its circumference determines. With the drum's speed adjusted, an electric current discharges the weapon, the bullet striking the center of the drum as measured from top to bottom.

It must be borne in mind that with the drum stationary the bullet would pass directly through it on a line of its diameter, coming out on the other side, with scarcely a "shade of impediment." With the drum's periphery whirling at the rate of 2,000 revolutions a minute and its diameter only a fraction more than a foot, this would mean a rate of 2,000 yards in sixty seconds. Thus in the fraction of a second necessary for the bullet to enter one side of the paper drum, cross it and pass out at the other side the opposite side of the drum would show a considerable deviation from an exact diameter of line of passage.

It is this space of deflection, shown inside the farther rim of the drum, that is used for computing the velocity of the missile. The speed of the cylinder may be computed to the ten-thousandth part of a second if necessary, and the lineal distance run in that time may be charted in perpendicular lines on the inner side of the paper. At whatever line the bullet penetrates outward it registers its time in crossing the diameter of the cylinder. If it has required the ten-thousandth part of a second for the bullet to proceed one foot from its muzzle, velocity in yards or miles may be computed by anybody.—Pearson's Weekly.

NEUTRALITY LAWS CAUSING TANGLES

Difficult For This Nation to Steer the Narrow Path.

BOTH SIDES COMPLAINING.

Majority of Americans Have Opinions and a Preference in the War, but Government Must Be Absolutely Impartial—Roosevelt Enjoys the Libel Trial and Publicity He Is Getting.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, May 1.—[Special.]—"It is not what the people of a nation think, but what that nation does, which makes for neutrality." That was the remark of one of the sages connected with the administration. That a majority of the people of the United States have a choice of sides one way or the other in the great European conflict is true.

Most men have an idea as to which is right and which is wrong or have a preference as to which side they want to win. But the nation as such must take no action for or against either side. Neutrality does not consist in thinking, but in acting.

Both Sides Complain.

There is a certain publication of wide circulation which publishes opinions of the press and periodicals. It is accused by both sides in this conflict of taking sides. It is also accused of being partisan by both political parties. All news associations, striving to be fair and nonpartisan, are often accused of partisanship. All of which goes to show that the average partisan believes that everything is partisanship which gives the other side any show whatever. He wants only his side presented and in the most favorable light. And so both sides complain of the neutrality of the United States in the present war.

No doubt the expressions of public opinion have had much to do with creating the impression that this country is not neutral. And it is also true that the nations controlling the sea have a way of making our intended neutrality a bit one-sided.

Roosevelt Satisfied.

"Don't think for a moment that Roosevelt is not perfectly satisfied," remarked a friend, who knew him well, during the trial last week. "Why, he's occupying several columns on the first pages and trailing over on pages 5, 9 or 10, or whatever place the editor man selects for the continuation of a long newspaper story. And the colonel is the center of the picture at the trial too. Don't forget that. I'll bet right now he'd tell you he was having a 'bully time.' There was never a man who liked the limelight better than the colonel."

And yet I remember during the last days of the Roosevelt administration one of the most pronounced standpat Republicans in the senate told me: "Roosevelt's star is setting. When he is out of the White House that will be the end of him. We have nothing to fear from him."

Will Learn Something.

The national bank which has tackled the government will learn what a power the United States government is when it gets started. I've known a number of concerns which attempted to "buck the government," but they found the full force of national authority against them. All departments, all federal officials, all the secret forces—in fact, the entire machine was working day and night against them. It's a bad thing to get mixed up with the government and to have the high and low officials go after one in earnest.

Daniels Persistent.

"If there is water enough in the canal the ships are going through," is the dictum of Josephus Daniels. Now it is up to those who oppose sending the ships to the Pacific to turn loose a slide or two just as they are about to set sail. Daniels has the backing of the president. Woodrow Wilson is not going to assume that war conditions in Europe concern this country to the extent of keeping the fleet in the Atlantic ocean, besides there is a desire to show that the canal can accommodate the big ships.

Pay For National Guard.

That old axiom "You can't get something for nothing" seems to have penetrated the minds of a number of men in regard to the state militia or national guard. Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the committee on military affairs, has announced that he will try and secure legislation which will give pay to the men who are serving in the national guard in the several states. Complaints have been made about the state troops, their organization, efficiency, etc. But what can be expected of men who work without pay? The state troops make their companies social organizations with little military training on the side. If Senator Chamberlain's idea is carried out the national guard may be made effective.

Root and Dewey.

Elihu Root is seventy years old and says he is too old for president. Chauncey Dewey at eighty-one says he is as good as ever, full of life and vigor. If he was ten years younger he would not stand aloof from the presidency. Age has dealt kindly with Dewey. And Root, too, for that matter, as he does not look near seventy years old.

SPEED OF BULLETS.

Ingenious Method For Measuring It Used by the Experts.

The method used by experts to ascertain the velocity of a projectile or bullet at the moment it leaves the muzzle of the weapon is as follows:

There is a drumlike cylinder of fixed diameter and of sufficiently stiff paper to stand being rapidly revolved on a spindle. As the cylinder is of small circumference it is necessary that the speed approach 2,000 revolutions a minute. These revolutions are produced by electric power, and the count is made by an exact mechanical register.

The gun is placed securely at the required distance from the drum and is sighted directly at the center of the cylinder, which is spinning at so many rods—even miles—a minute, as its circumference determines. With the drum's speed adjusted, an electric current discharges the weapon, the bullet striking the center of the drum as measured from top to bottom.

It must be borne in mind that with the drum stationary the bullet would pass directly through it on a line of its diameter, coming out on the other side, with scarcely a "shade of impediment." With the drum's periphery whirling at the rate of 2,000 revolutions a minute and its diameter only a fraction more than a foot, this would mean a rate of 2,000 yards in sixty seconds. Thus in the fraction of a second necessary for the bullet to enter one side of the paper drum, cross it and pass out at the other side the opposite side of the drum would show a considerable deviation from an exact diameter of line of passage.

It is this space of deflection, shown inside the farther rim of the drum, that is used for computing the velocity of the missile. The speed of the cylinder may be computed to the ten-thousandth part of a second if necessary, and the lineal distance run in that time may be charted in perpendicular lines on the inner side of the paper. At whatever line the bullet penetrates outward it registers its time in crossing the diameter of the cylinder. If it has required the ten-thousandth part of a second for the bullet to proceed one foot from its muzzle, velocity in yards or miles may be computed by anybody.—Pearson's Weekly.

NEUTRALITY LAWS CAUSING TANGLES

Difficult For This Nation to Steer the Narrow Path.

BOTH SIDES COMPLAINING.

Majority of Americans Have Opinions and a Preference in the War, but Government Must Be Absolutely Impartial—Roosevelt Enjoys the Libel Trial and Publicity He Is Getting.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, May 1.—[Special.]—"It is not what the people of a nation think, but what that nation does, which makes for neutrality." That was the remark of one of the sages connected with the administration. That a majority of the people of the United States have a choice of sides one way or the other in the great European conflict is true.

Most men have an idea as to which is right and which is wrong or have a preference as to which side they want to win. But the nation as such must take no action for or against either side. Neutrality does not consist in thinking, but in acting.

Both Sides Complain.

There is a certain publication of wide circulation which publishes opinions of the press and periodicals. It is accused by both sides in this conflict of taking sides. It is also accused of being partisan by both political parties. All news associations, striving to be fair and nonpartisan, are often accused of partisanship. All of which goes to show that the average partisan believes that everything is partisanship which gives the other side any show whatever. He wants only his side presented and in the most favorable light. And so both sides complain of the neutrality of the United States in the present war.

No doubt the expressions of public opinion have had much to do with creating the impression that this country is not neutral. And it is also true that the nations controlling the sea have a way of making our intended neutrality a bit one sided.

Roosevelt Satisfied.

"Don't think for a moment that Roosevelt is not perfectly satisfied," remarked a friend, who knew him well, during the trial last week. "Why, he's occupying several columns on the first pages and trailing over on pages 5, 9 or 16, or whatever place the editor man selects for the continuation of a long newspaper story. And the colonel is the center of the picture at the trial too. Don't forget that. I'll bet right now he'd tell you he was having a 'bully time.' There was never a man who liked the limelight better than the colonel."

And yet I remember during the last days of the Roosevelt administration one of the most pronounced standpat Republicans in the senate told me: "Roosevelt's star is setting. When he is out of the White House that will be the end of him. We have nothing to fear from him."

Will Learn Something.

The national bank which has tackled the government will learn what a power the United States government is when it gets started. I've known a number of concerns which attempted to "buck the government," but they found the full force of national authority against them. All departments, all federal officials, all the secret forces—in fact, the entire machine was working day and night against them. It's a bad thing to get mixed up with the government and to have the high and low officials go after one in earnest.

Daniels Persistent.

"If there is water enough in the canal the ships are going through," is the dictum of Josephus Daniels. Now it is up to those who oppose sending the ships to the Pacific to turn loose a slide or two just as they are about to set sail. Daniels has the backing of the president. Woodrow Wilson is not going to assume that war conditions in Europe concern this country to the extent of keeping the fleet in the Atlantic ocean, besides there is a desire to show that the canal can accommodate the big ships.

Pay For National Guard.

That old axiom "You can't get something for nothing" seems to have penetrated the minds of a number of men in regard to the state militia or national guard. Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the committee on military affairs, has announced that he will try and secure legislation which will give pay to the men who are serving in the national guard in the several states. Complaints have been made about the state troops, their organization, efficiency, etc. But what can be expected of men who work without pay? The state troops make their companies social organizations with little military training on the side. If Senator Chamberlain's idea is carried out the national guard may be made effective.

Root and Depew.

Elihu Root is seventy years old and says he is too old for president. Chauncey Depew at eighty-one says he is as good as ever, full of life and vigor. If he was ten years younger he would not stand aloof from the presidency. Age has dealt kindly with Depew. And Root, too, for that matter, as he does not look near seventy years old.

MOVE FOR CITY CLEAN UP DAY

Over 5,000 Cities are Conducting a Campaign for a General Clean Up and Paint Up

BRAINERD SHOULD GET BUSY

Tuesday, May 6th, Has Been Designated as the Date to Inaugurate the Sanitary Move

Over 5,000 towns and cities throughout the country have joined in a campaign to clean up and beautify their municipalities, and this clean up movement has a national bureau with headquarters at St. Louis, the aim of which is to secure the cooperation of as many cities as possible in the work which should awaken the civic pride in every man, woman and child in the community.

May 6th is the date set for Brainerd's clean up and paint up day and it is hoped that the movement will gain such an impetus that the city will show a grand improvement in looks when completed. It is expected that early in the week the plans will be formulated for concerted action in this matter and that the general public will take hold of it in a spirit that will work wonders in the appearance of the back yards, vacant lots and alleys.

The mayor and the city council are expected to assist in the matter and the matter of arranging for the work will be taken up at the Tuesday night's meeting of that body.

The cooperation of the general public will be asked in removing rubbish that has accumulated during the winter, the unsightly mounds in many alleys and the garbage heaps, all of which develop a stench in the back yards, are fly breeders and the filth should be removed, as flies breeding in such places become a danger in their flight to your kitchen, your baby's food and its bottle. The general clean up of the premises throughout the city at this time will have a beneficial effect and every effort should be made to get this work done before hot weather comes.

Protection against disease, like protection against hunger, says the bulletin of the state board of health, is easily obtained, for, like almost everything else, it is purchasable. Cleanliness of persons and surroundings, spells freedom from preventable diseases, according to the March bulletin of the board sent to the various county officials. The document is a timely one, coming, as it does, with the numerous appeals to "clean up."

FANS TO LINE UP IN THE PARADE

Event to be Made One Worth While—Team Which Will Represent Brainerd Best Obtainable

Two weeks from today Brainerd will officially open its baseball season when Verndale will be taken on for two games. The team which will represent Brainerd this year should be one of the strongest that has ever worn the uniforms. A number of the old stars will be in the lineup while quite a few new faces will probably be given permanent berths.

Contracts are to be entered into this year with each player which is in line with the program being carried out by the Brainerd Athletic association through the seven directors. The business of the team will be placed upon a permanent basis which should guarantee the season to be a successful one financially.

Tomorrow afternoon the "Athletics" will line up as follows:

Gavin	c	Parker
Shefflo	c	Roderick
Victor	p	Kannenber
Hitt	p	Bush
Cook	1b	Paine
Loom	2b	I. Roderick
Benda	ss	Moistad
Templeton	3b	Stallman
Erickson	lf	Dahl
Parker	cf	Clark
Pitcher	rf	Pitcher

Commencing next Wednesday evening, May 5th, all players who have signed and returned their contracts will be taken in hand by the manager and coach with the idea of adopting a code of signals while players will be drilled in team work constantly so as to make it possible for each member to know exactly each play.

An effort is being made to get as many of the fans as possible to line up and parade with the team on the opening day. Every fraternal organization in the city is to be invited to participate in the event while the Mayor-elect will be asked to declare a half holiday on May 15th.

DEVELOPMENTS OF WEEK ON RANGE

The Inland Steel Co. is Building a Small Concentrator for Testing Purposes at Crosby

EXTENSION TO CROFT MINE

Story of Carl Neumann, Sold Cheap Holdings Worth Thousands—Pit Mine Activity

The Inland Steel Co. has work well under way at Crosby where it is building a concentrator for test purposes. The Armour No. 1 mine of the company, is being changed from an underground to a pit mine, the Pennington people doing the work and operating one shovel. The Armour No. 2 mine is hoisting from shaft to cars and shipping and one cargo of ore has already cleared from the Head of the Lakes. The Thompson pit mine is preparing for shipments. The mines enumerated are all under Inland Steel Co. control.

The Croft mine in Crosby has had its shaft straightened and Supt. John A. Savage is engaged in sinking operations. This mine has some of the best equipment of any underground mine on the range. C. W. Mowery, assistant engineer of the Northern Pacific railway, is engaged in putting in the extension of the Northern Pacific railway connecting with the Croft mine. Some delay was experienced on the right of way, one owner blocking track laying for a time.

To show the fortunes which slip through men's hands one can take the case of Carl Neumann, of Minneapolis, well known on the Cuyuna range. Mr. Neumann at one time had a third interest in the Croft mine. He lost faith in it as the first drilling did not reveal any great values. He sold his interest for $500 cash and thought he was ahead of the game when he sold out. Later drilling touched other sections of the Croft mine and some of the finest Bessemer ore of the whole range was disclosed. The third interest which Neumann sold so cheap is now considered by some to be worth as much as $150,000.

A. F. Gross and other Duluthians have interests in the mine. It is expected to ship this season, the Northern Pacific handling the tonnage. Carl Neumann is also said to have a third interest in the Meacham mine. However after his Croft mine experience he is not selling out cheap.

Fortunes are sometimes lost in other ways on the Cuyuna iron range and that refers to the drills operated. Black diamonds are used to cut the core and occasionally the bits holding valuable diamonds are lost. One drill crew fished around months 200 feet below the surface until they recovered their lost bit. The Adams interests drilling near Oreland in section 30, township 46, range 28 lost a bit and were lucky to recover it within a few days.

The Hill Crest pit mine property was visited this week by R. R. Hill, of Saginaw, Mich., heavily interested in the property. The mine is having its overburden stripped by hydraulic work similar to what is being carried on at the Rowe mine. Water is piped from Blackhoof lake. A fine office building has been erected.

The Rowe pit mine at Riverton, owned by the Pittsburgh Steel Ore Co., it is estimated, will ship a large tonnage this season. Heavy trestle work has been built over the lake, extra trackage laid in the pit, much new machinery ordered and a concentrator is under construction. The

SHOPS INCREASE FORCE MACHINISTS

It is authoritatively announced today that 15 additional machinists will be put to work Monday in the Northern Pacific railway shops. Slight increases will also be made in other departments. Hiring men at the shops speaks volumes for present day conditions, for it shows business is increasing on the lines and territory of the Northern Pacific.

Soo line train now runs through Crosby to Riverton.

The Wilcox mine at Woodrow is getting in shape for heavy shipments. J. J. Doran and J. J. Mackay, of the Soo, visited R. W. Seelye. Both are deeply interested in mineral lands and mines throughout the Northwest and Canada. The mining company, said Mr. Seelye, will soon commence the construction of twelve cottages for miners. May will witness increasingly large shipments from the mine. What has been shipped so far, came from crosscutting and preparing the mine for big operations. Every pound of ore has been sold in advance before mining started.

Sinking of the shaft to a greater depth was started at the Iron Mountain mine Monday and will be continued. It is reported, until the first level is reached and drifting will then be started. Ore taken from the bottom of the shaft is said to contain a good percentage of manganiferous ore which will command a ready market. It is reported the mine may ship a tonnage of 40,000 tons. The Seaford Exploration Co. is continuing drilling for ore on the Duluth Land & Timber Co.'s land in section 29. The Combination Iron Co. will drill the Atkin county poor farm, and if it calls for a lease, will mine at 20 cents a ton royalty. F. A. Edson, of Deerwood, is superintending operations. Frank Oberg, of Deerwood and Minneapolis, is reported to have bought an interest in the southeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 3, township 46, range 29.

The Rogers, Brown Ore Co. is now devoting its entire attention to the Kennedy mine property at Cuyuna. A stockpile of large dimensions was accumulated in the winter. The mine is now hoisting and loading into cars and shipping. The stockpile has not yet been touched. At the Cuyuna-Mille Laes and Cuyuna-Duluth mines the pumps work ceaselessly and keep the mines clear from water. Just as soon as the word is received, mining will be resumed here. Both mines are subsidiaries of the American Manganese Manufacturing Co. An 1820 gallon electric pump was installed at the Cuyuna-Mille Laes mine and is giving good satisfaction.

The Barrows Mining Co. will soon commence shaft work at Barrows. A steel and concrete shaft is to be put down, C. B. Rowley of Brainerd being the superintendent in charge and using for the first time his newly patented method of shaft sinking and construction which is entirely successful will revolutionize such work on the Cuyuna iron range. Charles Fuller, an experienced miner of the north range, will be foreman. United States Marshall C. B. Buckman and associates of Little Falls will soon resume drilling on their land near the Barrows mine property.

John R. Harrington and associates of Hibbing and St. Paul are drilling the north eighty of land which the late Judge G. W. Holland gave the city of Brainerd. Hole No. 1 was drilled in a swamp and about in the center of the southeast forty. Ore was discovered at a depth of 144 feet. This hole was drilled to a depth of 260 feet and they were obliged to abandon this hole owing to the softness of the ground in the swamp. Hole No. 2 is located about 700 feet southeast of Hole No. 1. Ore was encountered at a depth of 239 feet and they are still in ore at a depth of 246 feet. The ore is of low grade, but appears to be getting better with the depth attained. Better ore is expected with deeper drilling.

The Brainerd-Cuyuna mine in Brainerd, of which Charles C. Jones of Duluth is the managing director, is drifting at the 154 foot level and is 15 feet or more in the crosscut. About 200 gallons a minute are being pumped. Supt. Andrew Johnson is doing very good work.

David O'Brien of Duluth and Superior, had seven mining men on the range Tuesday interested in the formation of a new development and exploration company. Additional drilling is soon to be started in the vicinity of Barrows.

The Iron Trade Review says that favorable developments continue to dominate the iron trade, although

MOVE FOR CITY CLEAN UP DAY

Over 5,000 Cities are Conducting a Campaign for a General Clean Up and Paint Up

BRAINERD SHOULD GET BUSY

Tuesday, May 6th, Has Been Designated as the Date to Inaugurate the Sanitary Move

Over 5,000 towns and cities throughout the country have joined in a campaign to clean up and beautify their municipalities, and this clean up movement has a national bureau with headquarters at St. Louis, the aim of which is to secure the cooperation of as many cities as possible in the work which should awaken the civic pride in every man, woman and child in the community.

May 6th is the date set for Brainerd's clean up and paint up day and it is hoped that the movement will gain such an impetus that the city will show a grand improvement in looks when completed. It is expected that early in the week the plans will be formulated for concerted action in this matter and that the general public will take hold of it in a spirit that will work wonders in the appearance of the back yards, vacant lots and alleys.

The mayor and the city council are expected to assist in the matter and the matter of arranging for the work will be taken up at the Tuesday night's meeting of that body.

The cooperation of the general public will be asked in removing rubbish that has accumulated during the winter, the unsightly mounds of garbage in many alleys and the garbage heaps, all of which develop a stench in the back yards, are fly breeders and the filth should be removed, as flies breeding in such places become a danger in their flight to your kitchen, your baby's food and its bottle. The general clean up of the premises throughout the city at this time will have a beneficial effect and every effort should be made to get this work done before hot weather comes.

Protection against disease, like protection against hunger, says the bulletin of the state board of health, is easily obtained, for, like almost everything else, it is purchasable. Cleanliness of persons and surroundings, spells freedom from preventable diseases, according to the March bulletin of the board sent to the various county officials. The document is a timely one, coming, as it does, with the numerous appeals to "clean up."

OFFICIALLY OPEN BASEBALL SEASON

Verndale Will be the First Team Taken on by the Brainerd Baseball Aggregation

FANS TO LINE UP IN THE PARADE

Event to be Made One Worth While—Team Which Will Represent Brainerd Best Obtainable

Two weeks from today Brainerd will officially open its baseball season when Verndale will be taken on for two games. The team which will represent Brainerd this year should be one of the strongest that has ever worn the uniforms. A number of the old stars will be in the lineup while quite a few new faces will probably be given permanent berths.

Contracts are to be entered into this year with each player which is in line with the program being carried out by the Brainerd Athletic association through the seven directors. The business of the team will be placed upon a permanent basis which should guarantee the season to be a successful one financially.

Tomorrow afternoon the "Athletics" will line up as follows:

Gavin	c	Parker
Shefflo	c	Roderick
Victor	p	Kannenberg
Hitt	p	Bush
Cook	1b	Paine
Loom	2b	I. Roderick
Benda	ss	Moistad
Templeton	3b	Stallman
Erickson	lf	Dahl
Parker	cf	Clark
Pitcher	rf	Pitcher

Commencing next Wednesday evening, May 5th, all players who have signed and returned their contracts will be taken in hand by the manager and coach with the idea of adopting a code of signals while players will be drilled in team work constantly so as to make it possible for each member to know exactly each play.

An effort is being made to get as many of the fans as possible to line up and parade with the team on the opening day. Every fraternal organization in the city is to be invited to participate in the event while the Mayor-elect will be asked to declare a half holiday on May 15th.

IMPROVING GROUNDS

Brainerd Baseball Field, Bleachers, Grounds, Players' Bench, Etc., Improved

At the Brainerd baseball field great improvements are under way. A netting is being placed over the grand stand. The left field bleachers are being screened up. The players bench is being fenced in. The grounds are being gotten in fine shape.

Last evening Templeton, Cook, Sam Parker, Quinn Parker, Gavin, H. Shefflo, Dahl, Hitt, Clark and Bush were out for practice. The complete organization will soon be announced and the playing schedule given out.

DEVELOPMENTS OF WEEK ON RANGE

The Inland Steel Co. is Building a Small Concentrator for Testing Purposes at Crosby

EXTENSION TO CROFT MINE

Story of Carl Neumann, Sold Cheap Holdings Worth Thousands—Pit Mine Activity

The Inland Steel Co. has work well under way at Crosby where it is building a concentrator for test purposes. The Armour No. 1 mine of the company, is being changed from an underground to a pit mine, the Pennington people doing the work and operating one shovel. The Armour No. 2 mine is hoisting from shaft to cars and shipping and one cargo of ore has already cleared from the Head of the Lakes. The Thompson pit mine is preparing for shipments. The mines enumerated are all under Inland Steel Co. control.

The Croft mine in Crosby has had its shaft straightened and Supt. John A. Savage is engaged in sinking operations. This mine has some of the best equipment of any underground mine on the range. C. W. Mowery, assistant engineer of the Northern Pacific railway, is engaged in putting in the extension of the Northern Pacific railway connecting with the Croft mine. Some delay was experienced on the right of way, one owner blocking track laying for a time.

To show the fortunes which slip through men's hands one can take the case of Carl Neumann, of Minneapolis, well known on the Cuyuna range. Mr. Neumann at one time had a third interest in the Croft mine. He lost faith in it as the first drilling did not reveal any great values. He sold his interest for $500 cash and thought he was ahead of the game when he sold out. Later drilling touched other sections of the Croft mine and some of the finest Bessemer ore of the whole range was disclosed. The third interest which Neumann sold so cheap is now considered by some to be worth as much as $150,000. A. F. Gross and other Duluthians have interests in the mine. It is expected to ship this season, the Northern Pacific handling the tonnage. Carl Neumann is also said to have a third interest in the Meacham mine. However after his Croft mine experience he is not selling out cheap.

Fortunes are sometimes lost in other ways on the Cuyuna iron range and that refers to the drills operated. Black diamonds are used to cut the core and occasionally the bits holding valuable diamonds are lost. One drill crew fished around months 200 feet below the surface until they recovered their lost bit. The Adams interests drilling near Oreland in section 30, township 46, range 28 lost a bit and were lucky to recover it within a few days.

The Hill Crest pit mine property was visited this week by R. R. Hill, of Saginaw, Mich., heavily interested in the property. The mine is having its overburden stripped by hydraulic work similar to what is being carried on at the Rowe mine. Water is piped from Blackhoof lake. A fine office building has been erected.

The Rowe pit mine at Riverton, owned by the Pittsburgh Steel Ore Co., it is estimated, will ship a large tonnage this season. Heavy trestle work has been built over the lake, extra track laid in the pit, much new machinery ordered and a concentrator is under construction. The

It is authoritatively announced today that 15 additional machinists will be put to work Monday in the Northern Pacific railway shops.

Slight increases will also be made in other departments. Hiring men at the shops speaks volumes for present day conditions, for it shows business is increasing on the lines and territory of the Northern Pacific.

Soo line train now runs through Crosby to Riverton.

The Wilcox mine at Woodrow is getting in shape for heavy shipments. J. J. Doran and J. J. Mackay, of the Soo, visited R. W. Seelye. Both are deeply interested in mineral lands and mines throughout the Northwest and Canada. The mining company, said Mr. Seelye, will soon commence the construction of twelve cottages for miners. May will witness increasingly large shipments from the mine. What has been shipped so far, came from crosscutting and preparing the mine for big operations. Every pound of ore has been sold in advance before mining started.

Sinking of the shaft to a greater depth was started at the Iron Mountain mine Monday and will be continued, it is reported, until the first level is reached and drifting will then be started. Ore taken from the bottom of the shaft is said to contain a good percentage of manganiferous ore which will command a ready market. It is reported the mine may ship a tonnage of 40,000 tons. The Seaford Exploration Co. is continuing drilling for ore on the Duluth Land & Timber Co's. land in section 29. The Combination Iron Co. will drill the Atkinson county poor farm, and if it calls for a lease, will mine at 20 cents a ton royalty. F. A. Edson, of Deerwood, is superintending operations. Frank Oberg, of Deerwood and Minneapolis, is reported to have bought an interest in the southeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 3, township 46, range 29.

The Rogers, Brown Ore Co. is now devoting its entire attention to the Kennedy mine property at Cuyuna. A stockpile of large dimensions was accumulated in the winter. The mine is now hoisting and loading into cars and shipping. The stockpile has not yet been touched. At the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs and Cuyuna-Duluth mines the pumps work ceaselessly and keep the mines clear from water. Just as soon as the word is received, mining will be resumed here. Both mines are subsidiaries of the American Manganese Manufacturing Co. An 1820 gallon electric pump was installed at the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs mine and is giving good satisfaction.

The Barrows Mining Co. will soon commence shaft work at Barrows. A steel and concrete shaft is to be put down, C. B. Rowley of Brainerd being the superintendent in charge and using for the first time his newly patented method of shaft sinking and construction which if entirely successful will revolutionize such work on the Cuyuna iron range. Charles Fuller, an experienced miner of the north range, will be foreman. United States Marshall C. B. Bucy and associates of Little Falls will soon resume drilling on their land near the Barrows mine property.

John R. Harrington and associates of Hibbing and St. Paul are drilling the north eighty of land which the late Judge G. W. Holland gave the city of Brainerd. Hole No. 1 was drilled in a swamp and about in the center of the southeast forty. Ore was discovered at a depth of 144 feet. This hole was drilled to a depth of 260 feet and they were obliged to abandon this hole owing to the softness of the ground in the swamp. Hole No. 2 is located about 700 feet southeast of Hole No. 1. Ore was encountered at a depth of 239 feet and they are still in ore at a depth of 246 feet. The ore is of low grade, but appears to be getting better with the depth attained. Better ore is expected with deeper drilling.

The Brainerd-Cuyuna mine in Brainerd, of which Charles C. Jones of Duluth is the managing director, is drifting at the 154 foot level and is 15 feet or more in the crosscut. About 200 gallons a minute are being pumped. Supt. Andrew Johnson is doing very good work.

David O'Brien of Duluth and Superior, had seven mining men on the range Tuesday interested in the formation of a new development and exploration company. Additional drilling is soon to be started in the vicinity of Barrows.

The Iron Trade Review says that favorable developments continue to dominate the iron trade, although

COKE SHED BURNED

Flat Car Near by Scorched and Foundry Windows Cracked—Shop Men Put Out Fire

The coke shed situated between the foundry and pattern shop of the Parker & Topping company was destroyed by fire at 11 o'clock last night entailing a loss of about $400. The building measured about 16 by 80 feet in size, containing no coke, but a lot of sand. The shop and foundry fire departments extinguished the fire.

A flat car on a near by track had its sides scorched and the scrap shed across the track was also scorched. A number of windows in the foundry were broken by water and heat.

"You have good news for me, my friends!" he exclaimed. "I am sure of it. How unfortunate that I was not at home to receive you! Tell me—don't keep me in suspense, if you please—have you discovered my skeleton?"

"We have found the skeleton," Quest announced.

For a single moment the newcomer stood as though turned to stone.

"My skeleton!" he murmured. "Mr. Quest, I knew it. You are the greatest man alive. Now tell me quickly—I want to know everything, but this first of all. Where did you find the skeleton? Who was the thief?"

"We found the skeleton, professor," Quest replied, "within a hundred yards of this house."

The professor's mouth was wide open. He looked like a bewildered child. It was several seconds before he spoke.

"Within a hundred yards of this house? Then it wasn't stolen by one of my rivals?"

"I should say not," Quest admitted. "Where? exactly did you find it?" the professor insisted.

"I found it in a hut," Quest said, "hidden in a piano box. I found there, also, a creature—a human being, I must call him—in a state of captivity."

"Hidden in a piano box?" the professor repeated wonderingly. "Why, you mean in Hartoo's sleeping box, then?"

"If Mr. Hartoo is the gentleman who tried to club me, you are right," Quest admitted. "Mr. Ashleigh, before we go any further I must ask you for an explanation as to the presence of that person in your grounds?"

The professor hesitated for a moment. Then he slowly crossed the room, opened the drawer of a small escritoire, and drew out a letter.

"You have heard of Sir William Ramsay, the president of the Royal Society?" he asked.

Quest nodded.

"This letter is from him," the professor continued. "You had better read it."

The criminologist read it aloud. Lenora looked over his shoulder:

To Prof. Edgar Ashleigh, New York.

My Dear Professor: Your communication gratifies and amazes me. I can say no more. It fell to your lot to discover the skeleton of the anthropoid, a marvelous thing, in its way, and needing only its corollary to form the greatest discovery since the dark ages. Now you tell me that in the person of Hartoo, the last of the Inyanos race of South America, you have found that corollary. You have supplied the missing link. You are in a position to give to the world a definite and logical explanation of the evolution of man. Let me give you one word of warning, professor, before I write you at greater length on the matter. Anthropologists are afflicted more, even than any other race of scientific men, with jealousy. Guard your secret well, lest the honor of this discovery should be stolen from you.

WILLIAM RAMSAY.

The professor nodded deliberately as Quest finished the letter.

"Now, perhaps you can understand," he said, "why it was necessary to keep Hartoo absolutely hidden. In a month's time my papers will be ready. Then I shall electrify the world. I shall write not a new page but a new volume across the history of science. I shall—"

The door was suddenly thrown open. Craig sprang in, no longer the self-contained, perfect man-servant, but with the face of some wild creature. His shout was one almost of agony.

"The hut, professor! The hut is on fire!" he cried.

His appearance on the threshold was like a flash. They heard his flying feet down the hall, and without a moment's hesitation they all followed. The professor led the way down a narrow and concealed path, but when they reached the little clearing in which the hut was situated, they were unable to approach any nearer. The place was a whirlwind of flame. The smell of kerosene was almost overpowering. The wild yell of the leopard rose above the strange, half-human gibbering of the monkeys and the hoarse, bass calling of another voice, at the sound of which Lenora and even Quest shuddered. Then, as they came, breathless, to a standstill, they saw a strange thing. One side of the hut fell in, and almost immediately the leopard with a mighty spring, leaped from the place and ran howling into the undergrowth. The monkeys followed but they came straight for the professor, wringing their hands. They fawned at his feet as though trying to show him their scorched bodies. Then for a single moment they saw the form of the ape-man as he struggled to follow the others. His strength failed him, however. He fell backwards into the burning chasm.

The professor bade them farewell, an hour later, on the steps of the house. He seemed suddenly to have aged.

"You have done your best, Mr. Quest," he said, "but fate has been too strong. Remember this, though. It is quite true that the cunning of Hartoo may have made it possible for him to have stolen the skeleton and to have brought it back to its hiding place, but it was jealousy—cruel, brutal, foul jealousy which smeared the walls of that hut with kerosene and set light to it. The work of a lifetime, my dreams of scientific immortality, have vanished in those flames."

He turned slowly away from them and re-entered the house. Quest and Lenora made their way down the avenue and entered the automobile which was waiting for them, almost in silence. The latter glanced toward his companion, as they drove off.

"Say, this has been a bit tough for you," he remarked. "I'll have to call somewhere and get you a glass of wine."

She tried to smile but her strength was almost gone. They drove to a restaurant and sat there for some little time. Lenora soon recovered her color. She even had courage to speak of the events of the afternoon when they re-entered the automobile.

"Mr. Quest," Lenora murmured, "who do you suppose burned the hut down?"

"If I don't say Craig, I suppose you will," he remarked. "I wonder whether Laura's had any luck."

They were greeted, as they entered Quest's room, by a familiar little ticking. Quest smiled with pleasure.

"It's the pocket wireless," he declared. "Let me take down the message."

He spelled it out to Lenora, who stood by his side:

Have joined Servants' club disguised as your butler. Craig frequent visitor here ten years ago, comes now occasionally. Thursday evenings most likely time. Shall wait here on chance of seeing him.

"Good girl, that," Quest remarked. "She's a rare sticker, too."

He turned away from the instrument and was crossing the room toward his cigar cabinet. Suddenly he stopped. He looked intently towards the sideboard.

"What is it?" Lenora asked.

He did not answer. She followed the direction of his gaze. Exactly in the same spot as before reposed another but somewhat larger black box, of the same shape and material as the previous one.

"Say, who put that there?" he demanded.

Lenora shook her head.

"I locked the door when we went out," she assured him.

Quest took the box into his hands and removed the lid. It seemed half full of cotton-wool. On the top were a few lines of writing and beneath them the signature of the parted hands. He read the form out slowly:

Drop all investigation. The hands that return these jewels command it.

TURKS PUTTING UP HARD FIGHT

Strenuously Oppose Advance of Allied Forces.

ATTACK BEGINS IN EARNEST

British and Australian Forces Land at Six Different Places on the Gallipoli Peninsula and Intrench and Consolidate Their Positions.

London, May 1.—The allies' attack on the Dardanelles, both by land and sea, apparently has begun in earnest, but in the face of strong resistance on the part of the Turkish forces.

Having landed successfully at six different places on the Gallipoli peninsula the British and Australian troops are declared by the British war office to have intrenched and consolidated their positions on a line extending from the southern extremity of the peninsula to a point almost behind the famous Turkish forts protecting the narrows of the Dardanelles.

Both the army and the supporting fleet, London says, have begun to engage the batteries all along his front.

The landing of troops was effected only after stubborn resistance by the Turks, in which heavy casualties were inflicted on the British. That the allies will be forced to fight their way everywhere seems probable.

Constantinople reports that the French armored cruiser Jeanne d'Arc has been set on fire and the British battleships Majestic and Triumph damaged by Turkish shells and all of them forced to retire from action; that a British torpedo boat destroyer has been sunk at the entrance of the Dardanelles; that two allied transports were badly damaged by shell fire and one of them beached and that some boats and sailing vessels were sunk.

The thousands of shells hurled by sixteen armored cruisers attacking the Turkish advance batteries in the narrows are declared by Constantinople to have resulted only in the wounding of a number of soldiers.

The British claim that a Turkish troop ship was sent to the bottom inside the straits by shells from the battleship Queen Elizabeth.

LAND ON FIVE BEACHES

British War Office Describes Attack on Dardanelles.

London, May 1.—The British war office made public an official communication concerning the operations of the allies against the Dardanelles:

"The disembarkation of the army in the Dardanelles began before sunrise on April 25. Six different beaches were used and the operation was covered by the whole fleet.

"The landing was immediately successful on five beaches, although it was opposed with vigor by a strongly entrenched enemy in successive lines, which were protected by barbed wire entanglements, in some places fifty yards wide, and supported by artillery.

"On the sixth beach, near Seddul Bahr, the troops could not advance until evening, when a fine attack by the British infantry from the direction of Cape Tekhe relieved the pressure on their front. The arrangements for landing had been concerted in the utmost detail between the fleet and the army."

MORE CANADIANS FOR WAR

Dominion's Third and Fourth Contingents to Be Mobilized.

Ottawa, Ont., May 1.—Though there has been no official announcement as to the number of men Canada will send to swell the ranks of the allies it is understood that according to the present plans 150,000 men will be sent to the firing line and more if Lord Kitchener needs them.

Instead of sending the men over in batches as reinforcements when required the third and fourth contingents, it is said, will be mobilized and sent forward earlier than was at first intended.

KING ALCOHOL IS SCORED

Secretary Bryan Advocates Temperance in New York.

New York, May 1.—Secretary Bryan declared in an address under the auspices of the National Abstinence Union here that the European war had developed that even patriotism is no match for the appetite which alcohol cultivates in its victim. The secretary was urging total abstinence and referred to restrictive measures which some of the belligerent nations have taken against intoxicants.

"There has been a growing disposition in this country and throughout the world to emphasize the evils of strong drink," he said. "But even the most enthusiastic advocates of temperance have been surprised at the ghastly light which the war in Europe has thrown upon the subject. It has been found that patriotism, that compelling force which throughout the ages has led men to offer their lives for their country, is no match for the appetite cultivated in its victims."

TRENCHES IN WARFARE.

Tools the Soldiers Use to Burrow Into the Ground.

Trenches are imperative in land warfare, and so consequently are tools for digging. Therefore every soldier carries his own tools, with which he can throw up some sort of defense, if it is only six inches of earth, and which can be enlarged, if necessary, into a regular trench.

Curiously enough, the trenching tool was the invention of an American engineer, Brigadier General H. W. Benham of the Army of the Potomac. It was twenty-two inches long and weighed a pound and a half, and it is practically this same tool that is used today, although, of course, with modifications. The present model is usually lighter, the best design being that used by the Austrians. It is less than twenty inches in length, the blade being eight inches long by six inches wide, one side having a cutting edge and the other a saw edge. A tool of this kind can be used by the soldier while lying down, and a few vigorous strokes are enough to throw up some sort of temporary protection, which can easily be enlarged if the position is to be held.

Trenching drill is hated more than anything else by the soldier in time of peace, but that same soldier acquires a positive love for his little spade after he has once been under fire and so discovered for himself the salutary qualities of a little mound of earth in front of him.

The soldier in a good trench is absolutely safe except from well aimed shrapnel or from shells that happen to burst in the trench itself, which, of course, is a rare happening. Perhaps it is worth noting that the advantages of the trench were discovered by Alexander the Great.—New York Post.

COLONEL SPRINGS SURPRISE

Tries to Show Collusion Between Barnes and Murphy.

Syracuse, N. Y., May 1.—Counsel for Theodore Roosevelt placed before the jury trying William Barnes' suit alleging libel testimony designed to indicate the existence of a bipartisan combination between Mr. Barnes, as leader of the Republican organization, and Charles F. Murphy, as leader of the Democratic organization.

H. C. McMillan, a former newspaper correspondent in Albany for a New York paper, swore that he saw Mr. Barnes talking to various Republican senators, including Grattan, in the office of the clerk of the senate. He said he saw Senators Grady and Fawley, whom he described as Tammany Democrats, and that soon after the pair went into the room in which Mr. Barnes was. That evening, he said, Senator Grattan made a motion which was passed, to concur in a joint resolution with the assembly to adjourn the special session.

No Aches or Pains

Peruna Did It for Me.

"I find Peruna an excellent spring and summer medicine and am glad to call the attention of my friends to it. I can truthfully say that I have no traces of my old complaint, and have neither ache nor pain, and enjoy life. Words cannot express my appreciation for the good Peruna has done me."

THE BLACK BOX

E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Novelized from the Photo Play of the Same Name. Produced by the Universal Film Manufacturing Company.

"You have good news for me, my friends!" he exclaimed. "I am sure of it. How unfortunate that I was not at home to receive you! Tell me—don't keep me in suspense, if you please—you have discovered my skeleton?"

"We have found the skeleton," Quest announced.

For a single moment the newcomer stood as though turned to stone.

"My skeleton!" he murmured. "Mr. Quest, I knew it. You are the greatest man alive. Now tell me quickly—I want to know everything, but this first of all. Where did you find the skeleton? Who was the thief?"

"We found the skeleton, professor," Quest replied, "within a hundred yards of this house."

The professor's mouth was wide open. He looked like a bewildered child. It was several seconds before he spoke.

"Within a hundred yards of this house? Then it wasn't stolen by one of my rivals?"

"I should say not," Quest admitted. "Where? exactly did you find it?" the professor insisted.

"I found it in a hut," Quest said, "hidden in a piano box. I found there, also, a creature—a human being, I must call him—in a state of captivity."

"Hidden in a piano box?" the professor repeated wonderingly. "Why, you mean in Hartoo's sleeping box, then?"

"If Mr. Hartoo is the gentleman who tried to club me, you are right," Quest admitted. "Mr. Ashleigh, before we go any further I must ask you for an explanation as to the presence of that person in your grounds?"

The professor hesitated for a moment. Then he slowly crossed the room, opened the drawer of a small escritoire, and drew out a letter.

"You have heard of Sir William Ramsmore, the president of the Royal Society?" he asked.

Quest nodded.

"This letter is from him," the professor continued. "You had better read it."

The criminologist read it aloud. Lenora looked over his shoulder:

To Prof. Edgar Ashleigh, New York.
My Dear Professor: Your communication gratifies and amazes me. I can say no more. It fell to your lot to discover the skeleton of the anthropoid, a marvelous thing, in its way, and needing only its corollary to form the greatest discovery since the dark ages. Now you tell me that in the person of Hartoo, the last of the Inyamo race of South America, you have found that corollary. You have supplied the missing link. You are in a position to give to the world a definite and logical explanation of the evolution of man. Let me give you one word of warning, professor, before I write you at greater length on the matter. Anthropologists are afflicted more, even, than any other race of scientific men, with jealousy. Guard your secret well, lest the honor of this discovery should be stolen from you.

WILLIAM RAMSMORE.

The professor nodded deliberately as Quest finished the letter.

"Now, perhaps you can understand," he said, "why it was necessary to keep Hartoo absolutely hidden. In a month's time my papers will be ready. Then I shall electrify the world. I shall write not a new page but a new volume across the history of science. I shall—"

The door was suddenly thrown open. Craig sprang in, no longer the self-contained, perfect man-servant, but with the face of some wild creature. His shout was one almost of agony.

"The hut, professor! The hut is on fire!" he cried.

His appearance on the threshold was like a flash. They heard his flying feet down the hall, and without a moment's hesitation they all followed. The professor led the way down a narrow and concealed path, but when they reached the little clearing in which the hut was situated, they were unable to approach any nearer. The place was a whirlwind of flame. The smell of kerosene was almost overpowering. The wild yell of the leopard rose above the strange, half-human gibbering of the monkeys and the hoarse, bass calling of another voice, at the sound of which Lenora and even Quest shuddered. Then, as they came, breathless, to a standstill, they saw a strange thing. One side of the hut fell in, and almost immediately the leopard with a mighty spring, leaped from the place and ran howling into the undergrowth. The monkeys followed but they came straight for the professor, wringing their hands. They fawned at his feet as though trying to show him their scorched bodies. Then for a single moment they saw the form of the ape-man as he struggled to follow the others. His strength failed him, however. He fell backwards into the burning chasm.

The professor bade them farewell, an hour later, on the steps of the house. He seemed suddenly to have aged.

"You have done your best, Mr. Quest," he said, "but fate has been too strong. Remember this, though. It is quite true that the cunning of Hartoo may have made it possible for him to have stolen the skeleton and to have brought it back to its hiding-place, but it was jealousy—cruel, brutal, foul jealousy which smeared the walls of that hut with kerosene and set light to it. The work of a lifetime, my dreams of scientific immortality, have vanished in those flames."

He turned slowly away from them and re-entered the house. Quest and Lenora made their way down the avenue and entered the automobile which was waiting for them, almost in silence. The latter glanced toward his companion, as they drove off.

"Say, this has been a bit tough for you," he remarked. "I'll have to call somewhere and get you a glass of wine."

She tried to smile but her strength was almost gone. They drove to a restaurant and sat there for some little time. Lenora soon recovered her color. She even had courage to speak of the events of the afternoon when they re-entered the automobile.

"Mr. Quest," Lenora murmured, "who do you suppose burned the hut down?"

"If I don't say Craig, I suppose you will," he remarked. "I wonder whether Laura's had any luck."

"They were greeted, as they entered Quest's room, by a familiar little ticking. Quest smiled with pleasure.

"It's the pocket wireless," he declared. "Let me take down the message."

He spelled it out to Lenora, who stood by his side:

Have joined Servants' club disguised as your butler. Craig frequent visitor here ten years ago, comes now occasionally. Thursday evenings most likely time. Shall wait here on chance of seeing him.

"Good girl, that," Quest remarked. "She's a rare stickler, too."

He turned away from the instrument and was crossing the room toward his cigar cabinet. Suddenly he stopped. He looked intently towards the sideboard.

"What is it?" Lenora asked.

He did not answer. She followed the direction of his gaze. Exactly in the same spot as before reposed another but somewhat larger black box, of the same shape and material as the previous one.

"Say, who put that there?" he demanded.

Lenora shook her head.

"I locked the door when we went out," she assured him.

Quest took the box into his hands and removed the lid. It seemed half full of cotton-wool. On the top were a few lines of writing and beneath them the signature of the parted hands. He read the form out slowly:

Drop all investigation. The hands that return these jewels command it.

TURKS PUTTING UP HARD FIGHT

Strenuously Oppose Advance of Allied Forces.

ATTACK BEGINS IN EARNEST

British and Australian Forces Land at Six Different Places on the Gallipoli Peninsula and Intrench and Consolidate Their Positions.

London, May 1.—The allies' attack on the Dardanelles, both by land and sea, apparently has begun in earnest, but in the face of strong resistance on the part of the Turkish forces.

Having landed successfully at six different places on the Gallipoli peninsula the British and Australian troops are declared by the British war office to have intrenched and consolidated their positions on a line extending from the southern extremity of the peninsula to a point almost behind the famous Turkish forts protecting the narrows of the Dardanelles.

Both the army and the supporting fleet, London says, have begun to engage the batteries all along his front.

The landing of troops was effected only after stubborn resistance by the Turks, in which heavy casualties were inflicted on the British. That the allies will be forced to fight their way everywhere seems probable.

Constantinople reports that the French armored cruiser Jeanne d'Arc has been set on fire and the British battleships Majestic and Triumph damaged by Turkish shells and all of them forced to retire from action; that a British torpedo boat destroyer has been sunk at the entrance of the Dardanelles; that two allied transports were badly damaged by shell fire and one of them beached and that some boats and sailing vessels were sunk.

The thousands of shells hurled by sixteen armored cruisers attacking the Turkish advance batteries in the narrows are declared by Constantinople to have resulted only in the wounding of a number of soldiers.

The British claim that a Turkish troop ship was sent to the bottom inside the straits by shells from the battleship Queen Elizabeth.

LAND ON FIVE BEACHES

British War Office Describes Attack on Dardanelles.

London, May 1.—The British war office made public an official communication concerning the operations of the allies against the Dardanelles:

"The disembarkation of the army in the Dardanelles began before sunrise on April 25. Six different beaches were used and the operation was covered by the whole fleet.

"The landing was immediately successful on five beaches, although it was opposed with vigor by a strongly intrenched enemy in successive lines, which were protected by barbed wire entanglements, in some places fifty yards wide, and supported by artillery.

"On the sixth beach, near Seddul Bahr, the troops could not advance until evening, when a fine attack by the British infantry from the direction of Cape Tekheh relieved the pressure on their front. The arrangements for landing had been concerted in the utmost detail between the fleet and the army."

MORE CANADIANS FOR WAR

Dominion's Third and Fourth Contingents to Be Mobilized.

Ottawa, Ont., May 1.—Though there has been no official announcement as to the number of men Canada will send to swell the ranks of the allies it is understood that according to the present plans 150,000 men will be sent to the firing line and more if Lord Kitchener needs them.

Instead of sending the men over in batches as reinforcements when required the third and fourth contingents, it is said, will be mobilized and sent forward earlier than was at first intended.

KING ALCOHOL IS SCORED

Secretary Bryan Advocates Temperance in New York.

New York, May 1.—Secretary Bryan declared in an address under the auspices of the National Abstinents' Union here that the European war had developed that even patriotism is no match for the appetite which alcohol cultivates in its victim. The secretary was urging total abstinence and referred to restrictive measures which some of the belligerent nations have taken against intoxicants.

"There has been a growing disposition in this country and throughout the world to emphasize the evils of strong drink," he said. "But even the most enthusiastic advocates of temperance have been surprised at the ghastly light which the war in Europe has thrown upon the subject. It has been found that patriotism, that compelling force which throughout the ages has led men to offer their lives for their country, is no match for the appetite cultivated in its victims."

TRENCHES IN WARFARE.

Tools the Soldiers Use to Burrow into the Ground.

Trenches are imperative in land warfare, and so consequently are tools for digging. Therefore every soldier carries his own tools, with which he can throw up some sort of defense, if it is only six inches of earth, and which can be enlarged, if necessary, into a regular trench.

Curiously enough, the trenching tool was the invention of an American engineer, Brigadier General H. W. Benham of the Army of the Potomac. It was twenty-two inches long and weighed a pound and a half, and it is practically the same tool that is used today, although, of course, with modifications. The present model is usually lighter, the best design being that used by the Austrians. It is less than twenty inches in length, the blade being eight inches long by six inches wide, one side having a cutting edge and the other a saw edge. A tool of this kind can be used by the soldier while lying down, and a few vigorous strokes are enough to throw up some sort of temporary protection, which can easily be enlarged if the position is to be held.

Trenching drill is hated more than anything else by the soldier in time of peace, but that same soldier acquires a positive love for his little spade after he has once been under fire and so discovered for himself the salutary qualities of a little mound of earth in front of him.

The soldier in a good trench is absolutely safe except from well aimed shrapnel or from shells that happen to burst in the trench itself, which, of course, is a rare happening. Perhaps it is worth noting that the advantages of the trench were discovered by Alexander the Great.—New York Post.

COLONEL SPRINGS SURPRISE

Tries to Show Collusion Between Barnes and Murphy.

Syracuse, N. Y., May 1.—Counsel for Theodore Roosevelt placed before the jury trying William Barnes' suit alleging libel testimony designed to indicate the existence of a bipartisan combination between Mr. Barnes, as leader of the Republican organization, and Charles F. Murphy, as leader of the Democratic organization.

H. C. McMillan, a former newspaper correspondent in Albany for a New York paper, swore that he saw Mr. Barnes talking to various Republican senators, including Grattan, in the office of the clerk of the senate. He said he saw Senators Grady and Frawley, whom he described as Tammany Democrats, and that soon after the pair went into the room in which Mr. Barnes was. That evening, he said, Senator Grattan made a motion which was passed, to concur in a joint resolution with the assembly to adjourn the special session.
